Night School: Big Switch

Loyola Evening College is contemplating a switch to a 3-credit course system instead of its present basic unit of 2-credit courses. Such a move will enable Loyola Evening College to harmonize its courses more readily with Loyola Day College, Johns Hopkins, and all other colleges and universities.

This change will provide for greater depth in each course. It will lessen the total number of courses required for graduation by as much as one-third.

When the new program is adopted, a student who normally carries 12-credit hours per semester will be able to direct his efforts to four courses instead of six.

Everyone Agrees

Fr. Costello, Evening College Registrar, says that a questionnaire had been sent to all the faculty and students of the Evening College, asking their opinion on the proposed change. Since the response to the proposal was so favorable, the new system will most likely become effective in the 1960 fall semester.

Aid to Day Students

Day students of Loyola who must make up courses will find this new system of special benefit. Previously they had to take two courses in night school to make up one 3-credit course of the day college.

Don Zeman Ranks First In CPA Exam

It has been announced that Donald J. Zeman, a Loyola College graduate of the class of 1959, came out in first place among the 50 candidates who passed a recent examination for Certified Public Accountants.

He received the highest total mark for all of the five required subjects in the uniform examination prepared by the Board of Examiners of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

A graduate of Baltimore City College, Zeman was an accounting major at Loyola and graduated "cum laude", with a rank of sixth place in his graduating class. He also was Business Manager of the Yearbook in his senior year.

IN MEMORIAM

On Tuesday, March 8, a solemn requiem mass was celebrated at the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen by Archbishop Francis P. Keough for Herbert R. O'Connor.

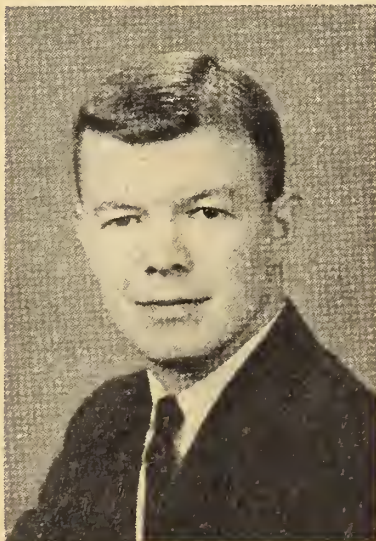

Former Senator O'Connor was a member of the Loyola Class of '17. He was a member of the President's Board and an active member of the Alumni Association. His political achievements included terms as State Senator, Governor, and State Attorney General. We, the faculty and students of Loyola College, deeply mourn the passing of this most distinguished graduate.

Glee Club Sets Date

Sunday, April 24, has been set as the date for the Glee Club's annual Spring Concert. It will be given in conjunction with the Glee Club of St. Marys-of-the-Woods College, Indiana, in the gym at 8:30 in the evening.

The Club has also scheduled two away concerts during the month of May. On May 1 they will present a combined concert at Georgetown Visitation in Washington, D.C., and on May 6 they will travel to Marymount Jr. College in Arlington, Virginia.

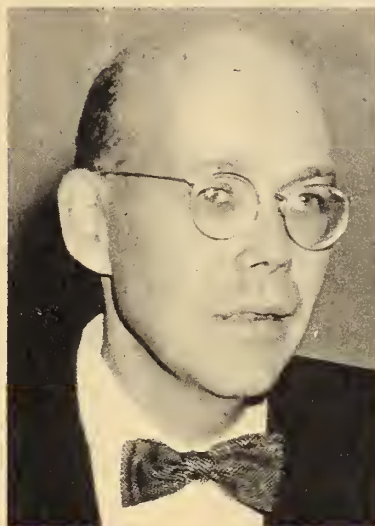

Under the direction of Miss Virginia Reinecke, the Club will present selections from the Broadway show "Porgy and Bess" at the Spring Concert, tickets for which go on sale beginning March 14.

"What Is Art?" Topic Of Lecture By Carton

Mr. William Carton, a lecturer in the Business Administration Department, will speak on the topic, "What is Art?", at a lecture scheduled for Wednesday, March 16, at 1 p.m. in Xavier Lounge. This talk is one in the series of Gorman Lectures arranged by Fr. Campbell.

Since Mr. Carton will be conducting a Fine Arts course next semester, it was felt that it would be best to present, through a lecture open to all students, some idea of what distinguishes the "artistic" from that which is not artistic.

New Course

The Fine Arts course, to be initiated in the fall of 1960, will cover two semesters and six semesters hours. The first semester will consist in a survey course devoted to the interpretation and appreciation of architecture, sculpture and painting, and will cover Egypt and Mesopotamia, the Aegean civilization, Greece and Rome and Romanesque and Gothic Art.

The second semester will cover topics on Renaissance architecture and sculpture, as well as on modern painting, as illustrated by cubism, non-objectivism, expressionism and surrealism.

Ron Yakaitis Campus Composer

"Jack Gale says they are money records. Actually, when I was sick once, I heard a song on the radio, and I figured that I could do just as well." So says Ron Yakaitis.

Last year, Ron composed about twenty songs, two of which were contracted in New York unsuccessfully. However, Ron kept composing and presently three new records that really look promising are under contract with JALO record company (owned by d.j. Jack Gale of WITH). On March 1, "Don't Ask Me Why I'm Blue," by the Premiums, "Everything's All Right," and "Playboy", by a Baltimorean, were recorded. All three records will be released in the near future.

At Mt. St. Joseph's High School, "Yak" won first place in both the Catholic Forensic League and the National American Legion Contests. He also received full scholarships to Loyola of Chicago, St. Francis, (Pa.), the University of New Mexico, and Scranton University.

"There's a lot of strain as far as speaking goes, and the way my music is going now, I haven't had time to engage in many activities at Loyola."

"Yak's" after school activities include his playing the piano for the Savoy's, the Originals, and the Royaliers, and singing with the Debonaires.

Gung-ho Greek

Ed Conery, Ed Slawski, John Baynes, Mike Hillman, John Ryan, and Dave McDonnell are reading the New Testament in St. Luke's original Greek; Fr. Drane, who teaches class, hopes to eventually read the 2nd Book of Plato's "Republic." These students are taking a Greek course, which they initiated themselves, and for which they are receiving no official credit.

Ready, Aim, Fire

Loyola's rifle team will compete in another match this afternoon when they travel to Homewood to face Johns Hopkins University. First match will get under way at 3:00 p.m.

'Sno Parking

Snow is a natural force that man has to accept. The white blanket makes a pretty picture, but for those of us who have to travel it is a general nuisance and creates problems. Because we are a day school, it is a problem here at Loyola. When the snow falls there is a possibility that many of us, students and faculty members alike, will not be able to reach the campus.

The Administration has a big problem. It must decide whether or not classes should be called off. Accrediting agencies require a certain number of classes during the year. If snow causes the cancellation of too many, we will have to reschedule them at the end of the semester, and such a situation might pose hardships for many.

Transportation is a big problem, the parking situation, and the slowness of the BTC buses. Most buses do not run on schedule on snowy days, and even if a student allows what he feels is ample time to make the trip by bus, there is a fifty-fifty chance he will be late for his first class.

If we drive when there is a heavy snowfall, under Mr. Barnes's Emergency Plan we can not park on Cold Spring Lane. Millbrook Road is available to park on, but even if we locate a spot, it may be more permanent than we think, for the odds are against us moving the car after a few hours in class.

The present parking situation is a difficult one, even when there is no snow. A new Physics-Engineering building is planned for the senior parking lot. When that comes into being the situation will even be worse. Possibly when this building is constructed, an underground parking area could be provided, thus easing the parking situation. In any event, the parking problem is one which has to be looked into, snow or no snow.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

Compulsory First Friday Mass attendance has caused a great deal of commotion on campus. I would like to make one point. Loyola is a Catholic College. Most of the students are Catholic. We should embody the principles of the college which are the same principles of our faith.

One concrete manifestation of adherence to these principles is attendance at Mass daily, but most do not. The only time the students are required to go to Mass is on Sunday — not a class day. It would be quite advantageous for the students to express, en masse, their Catholicity. First Friday presents a wonderful opportunity. It requires only the sacrifice of a half hour once a month.

Ed Slawski, '63

Dear Sir:

The purpose of attendance at Mass on First Friday is to tend toward Christian perfection. It is

Firefighter; Jesuit Meet Fr. Bourbon

Dean of Men is the title given to Fr. Frank Bourbon here at Loyola. But to the firefighters in Washington, D.C., he is Capt. Frank Bourbon of Engine No. 6, Auxiliary Battalion.

Father Bourbon, as a scholastic teaching at Gonzaga High in 1951, joined the Washington Emergency Fire Department, an auxiliary to the regular department. These auxiliaries are called out on general alarms.

Laughingly, Father said, "My class enjoyed my being a firefighter, since they got free periods whenever I was called out."

When asked if it was a little unusual for a religious to be fighting fires, he explained, "The Washington Fire Department had a chaplain, but there was need of a spiritual adviser. And this, besides firefighting, was my first job."

"The auxiliaries," Father said, "train for 52 weeks, 4 nights a week. Among other things, we trained in the engine work, aerial ladder rescue, and first aid."

Father was recalling past memories, when asked if he ever had any "close calls" as a firefighter. He didn't, but he did recall a time that he could have.

"It was January 1951 and we just finished helping with a train wreck at Pennsylvania Station. An alarm came in of a fire at a tire and battery store. Battalion Chief Grumwell asked me to go with him, but I decided to get back to class. On returning to the engine house a general alarm came in on the same fire. Chief Sutton asked me to go. Lucky for me, I didn't. As a result of an explosion, Chief Sutton and his crew were seriously injured. In all probability, I would have been injured too."

To help firemen further, Father has written a special prayer, appropriately called "The Fireman's Prayer." So far 5,000 copies have been distributed. Soon he will work on a special prayer for policemen.

Fr. Bourbon

the Watchdog

It's nice to know that within minutes after a snowfall, many busy hands begin digging Loyola out of the dilemma. In just five short days it is already safe to bring chained vehicles on some parts of the campus.

If any of the student body have guns to get rid of or any other unwanted debris, the authorities assure us that the hole next to the driveway at the east end of the Student Center is truly bottomless. Either that, or some nasty soul is digging it out as fast as they can fill it.

The track team asked us to thank "Mac" for calling off track practice last Friday.

We don't want to worry anyone, but the Dean of Men has been compiling a list of possible suspects in last week's false announcement that school would be closed Friday. At latest report, he has received some interesting facts from someone who should know.

There is a budding songwriter on campus by the name of Ronald Yakatis. So far three of his numbers have been recorded and are due to be released shortly on the Jalo label, owned by Jack Gale.

The Chief wants to know where all the hydrochloric acid has gone. We don't know what you fellows are planning, but before you throw that bottle ask yourself, "Will this get me a higher place in heaven?"

We hope all the Juniors are enjoying the extra classes in which they get a chance to practice dry runs with the M1 rifle. Due to their enthusiasm the R.O.T.C. department has graciously announced that starting this week they can also clean them.

Bill Lohnes seems to have found a solution to the parking problem. He just gets here early for Monday's classes. This week he got here Thursday.

Mr. O'Brien has assured us that all the shouting we heard Saturday was merely the debating team. From the volume of the noise we thought it was a revolt.

GREYHOUND SALUTES: LOYOLA'S JESUIT ALUMNI

Jesuit novices Carroll S. Rankin, ex '61, George Loskorn, '58, and Gerald P. Fogarty, ex '60, are shown in the language laboratory of the Wernersville, Pa., novitiate pioneering in aural-oral Latin techniques.

Mr. James Wintz, '51 teaches at Loyola High School. He entered the Jesuits after an Army hitch. Mr. Richard Dimler, ex '54, is also at Blakefield. Other Loyola grad Jesuits include Mr. Frank Metzbow, '52, at Georgetown Prep, and Mr. Robert Baumiller, '53 doing doctoral work in Biology at St. Louis U., and Mr. Roger Reynold's, ex '54, teaching at St. Joseph's Prep in Philadelphia.

If you measure a college by what its graduates do with their lives Loyola fares very well.

Some, like the late Senator O'Connor and Mayor Grady, are noted for achievement in politics; Dr. Frank Otenasek, in medicine; Dr. William Thaler, in nuclear physics; Time-editor Max Ways, in journalism.

There are alumni who have traveled less spectacular but equally demanding paths: men, some of whom are pictured here, who decided that in the Jesuits they could use to best advantage their time, talents, and energy.

After graduation (or in many instances before) they went to lives of religious poverty, chastity, and obedience, and to work at home or abroad in education, missions, parishes, or retreats.

They work for the good of their neighbor and, in their motto, "For the Greater Glory of God."

They are men in whom Loyola and Baltimore may take great pride.

Mr. T. Howland Sanks, '55, teaches at Scranton Prep. He turned down a Fulbright Scholarship to London University to join the Jesuits.

Mr. Robert K. Judge, ex '53, is working at the Student Personnel Office at Georgetown University.

Holding forth at their Alma Mater are Fr. Herman Storek, '97, Fr. Vincent Keelan, '09 (uncle of senior Jim), Fr. Francis X. ... ex '35, Student Counsellor, Fr. Aloysius Galvin, '49, Academic Dean, and Mr. Wallace Jungers, '53, Chemistry Instructor. When Mr. Jungers was a Freshman, he was taught the course he now teaches by Fr. Beatty, who was a member of that department before his appointment as President.

Mr. Joseph Coyne, '50, and Mr. G. Harry Hock, '53, are in graduate studies at Catholic University. Mr. Hock is working in Math, on valuation theory; Mr. Coyne's work is in Physics, in nuclear structures.

Mr. Alan Panuska, '49 (classmate of Fr. Galvin), holds a Ph.D. in Biology (physiological mammology) and has published a series of papers in the Journal of Mammology. He will be ordained in June at Woodstock.

Even The Leprechauns Cannot Believe Their Eyes
First Come — While They Last — First Served

As a college sophomore, you're nearing the mid-point. Halfway through college—halfway through Army ROTC. Now you face a major decision: Are the gold bars of a Second Lieutenant worth two additional years of study in advanced ROTC?

That question is yours to answer now—before you register for your junior year. As you explore the facts, carefully weigh the traditional responsibilities and rewards of serving as an Army officer . . .

1. Traditional responsibilities. To meet the command responsibilities of an Army officer, you apply the leadership principles absorbed during advanced ROTC training. And your executive potential grows as you gather leadership experience. That's why employers often prefer men who served as commissioned officers. These men already have proven their capacity to shoulder executive responsibility.

2. Traditional rewards. In every organization, greater responsibilities mean greater rewards. Thus the traditional responsibilities and prestige of an Army officer are matched by material advantages. For example, if you plan to marry soon after graduation—an officer's salary can be a distinct advantage. A married 2nd Lieutenant earns a minimum of $355.68 per month—plus substantial fringe benefits.

Need more information? Check with the Professor of Military Science and Tactics at your college or university. He'll be glad to discuss your decision with you.

Last year, 14,436 sophomores answered "yes" to this question—and entered advanced Army ROTC.*

Georgetown Wins Evergreen Tourney

Debators from Georgetown School of Foreign Service and the Naval Academy participated in the first Evergreen debate held on campus on Saturday, March 5.

Topics debated included, "Resolved: the U.S. is declining as world power"; "Resolved: that current American literature and popular arts show America as a decadent culture", and "Resolved: that marriage to an American woman is a calamity for the average man."

the mark of a finished Christian and a good Catholic to attend Mass on this Friday — and every other Friday for that matter. But this business about compulsory attendance raises a deeper problem: namely, will compulsory attendance achieve the purpose of the devotion to the First Friday?

Some say, "It is a school rule and come hell or high water all will attend", while others say, "We are a Catholic college; therefore, all must attend." But I think both totally miss the point and do not realize the purpose of the devotion. I repeat the purpose, "Will this compulsory attendance further Christian perfection at Loyola — not external piety but Christian perfection?"

Classics Academy

"The purpose of the Classic's Academy is to study in fuller detail the political, social and literary occurrences of the classical period, and to try to gain a deeper insight into the events of today by such a study", says Dr. Kaltenbach, the moderator of the club.

The Roman Emperors, topic of discussion for the club this year, will be developed in lectures given by members of the club. The first of these will be given by Mike Plott, '60, on the Flavian Emperors. It will show how the Caesar family seized the ruling power from the feeble Roman Republic and set themselves up as dictators. The lecture will continue on to show that after a few "good" emperors the government fell under the rule of incompetent administrators, such as Caligula and Nero.

After the lectures there will be informal sessions of discussion about the talk. This is the most valuable part of the club. Each member expresses his opinions. Names, dates, places and facts emerge as ideas.

History majors would find that the few hours spent in hearing the talks and expressing their opinions are well worth the time.

GREYHOUND SPORTS

By ROL STURM

Greyhound Sports Editor

Greyhound lacrossers are slightly more optimistic this year than usual. For instead of playing both the teams which in the past few years have been the two top teams in the nation, they are only facing one, Hopkins. This distinction of playing both Hopkins and Maryland was actually an undesirable and an unequitable situation. Although there is a lot to be said for playing a representative schedule, it does have its limitations.

With Jerry Beck and Mike Spiegelmire leading the way the Hounds should be an improved and hustling team. Jerry was outstanding in the midfield in his sophomore year and although he slacked off somewhat last year, he should do a very good job of sparking the Hounds' midfield this year.

Other returning midfielders from last year's team are sophomores Will Asher and Ham Dugan, juniors Larry Sheridan and Joe Curran, and seniors Rick Pyle and Joe Weber. Asher and Dugan showed great promise as freshmen and are being counted on heavily by coach Charlie Wenzel to develop.

Spiegelmire, who is a very aggressive defenseman should be the key factor in molding a rugged defense for the Hounds. Teaming with Mike on the defense will be sophomores Charley Graham, and Mike Cross, and junior Bob Reiter.

The attack will be led by sophomore Jimmy Lamar who last year showed great promise of developing into a fine scorer. Helping Jimmy on the attack from last year's squad will be Senior Hugh Coyle and sophomore Mike Abromatis.

Senior Pat Cullen is the only returning goalie. Pat saw only limited action in the nets last year, and this year is switching to attack.

LATE INTRAMURAL SPORTS BULLETIN

Wednesday afternoon in the Gym, an unusual event took place. Many witnesses who saw the Moleskins defeat the Hoodles 34-23 in intramural basketball probably did not realize its full significance. This was only the second time that Mike Ellis's team, known two years ago as the Hotshots, and last year as the Hymen, lost a league game. This team has likewise taken the championship laurels each of its two years of existence. The result of Wednesday's game points up the beginning of a new era, since the first game Ellis's team won two years ago was in trouncing the Moleskins 42-21.

The game Wednesday, which put the Moleskins in the finals of the winner's bracket and the Hoodles in the loser's bracket, started off as a very close one. Tom Schultz hit on a jumper to put the victors out in front 2-0. From this point, the lead changed hands numerous times. The Moleskins led 8-7 at the end of the first quarter, but were outscored 6-5 in the second period to make the score tied 13-13 at halftime. Jim Fowler, high scorer of the game with 18 points, threw in most of his in the third quarter to put the Moleskins in the lead 18-15.

Intramural Items

By Ass't Sports Editor
Pete Cook

With the close of the varsity basketball season the intramurals have taken the court spotlight on campus.

The Favorites

After a month of skirmishing thus far, the Moleskins, Handy Six, Vets and Hoodles remain the top choices to cop the title. The Moleskins and Hoodles played in a top encounter on Wednesday and today the Vets and Handy Six square off.

Last week the action was abbreviated to the Wednesday games due to the weather. Here are the results of the games played last week.

Jocks Bounce Back

The Jocks, who dropped down to the loser's bracket after a loss to the Hoodles, clowned their way to a 43-23 victory over the Leprechauns. Wade Bowman dumped in 12 points to lead the Jocks while Barry Truax hit for 10. Walt Griffin led the Leprechauns with 14.

The Junior Moleskins routed the Rebels, 57-34 behind Ron Seager's 22 points and Norrie Byrnes' 20 while Sal Glorioso led the Rebels with his 12 points.

Fresh Moles Drop

The Fresh Moles, the third branch of the illustrious Moleskins fell into the loser's bracket with a 41-25 loss at the hands of the Handy Six. Tom Gentner led the balanced scoring attack for the victors, getting 12 while Nick Kollman and Chuck Pessagno followed with 11 and 9 respectively. Jack O'Keefe paced the Fresh Moles attack for the second straight game with 8 and Jack Conley followed with 7.

Hoodles Team To Beat

The tournament will probably run into April with about 12 games yet to be played. Things look good for the Hoodles, who have won the title 2 years in a row and are unbeaten in intramural competition.

Jerry Beck, Co-captain of the lacrosse team, comes up with a loose ball in a past game.

Depth Is Lacking On Track Team

With the track season opening against Washington College at home on April 5, Coach Bill McElroy is putting the cindermen through their paces so they will be in top condition.

No Depth

The main concern of the team is lack of depth. With the return of Arnold Sapperstein and Paul Sherman, the Hounds have a top-notch performer in the sprints and distances. However, the backers are lacking and McElroy places his hopes on freshmen.

Wade Bowman and Ron Sacker return in the weight events while Vic Dragin and Tom Gray will be counted on in the broad jump. Lew Smith is expected to provide a little depth to the distance events.

The Hounds boast two second place finishers in the M-D tourney last year in Sherman and Sapperstein. The former placed in the two mile run, while the latter ran second in the 100 and 200 yd. dashes.

Tennis

With spring sports rapidly approaching, the tennis team is preparing for the upcoming year. The team has definite hopes of improving on last year's record of three victories and seven setbacks. The team will have Don Torres, Tad Carper, Dave Mulroony, and Dan Michaelis as their returning lettermen from last year and will also have Jim Fowler back with them. Jim was a member of the "Hounds" championship team in 1957 and is being counted on for this year's team.

This year the team will not have one captain throughout the year as has been the previous practice, but will appoint a different captain for each tournament. In this way there should be an excellent feeling of closeness and will to improve among the team's members.

Baseball Team Remains Indoors Due To Snow

Loyola College's 1960 baseball team is waiting for a break in the weather, so that they can get in some outdoor practice. The Greyhound pitchers and catchers have been loosening up in the gym for the past week and a half.

Last Monday, coach Lefty Reitz held a meeting for all candidates for the team, but if anyone is still interested in coming out for the team, he should stop in to see Lefty Reitz, as soon as possible.

Coach Reitz is looking for men to fill the gaps in the infield and behind the plate caused by graduation.

The Greyhound's open their season in a little better than two weeks, on Tuesday, March 29 against Bowdoin College from Brunswick, Maine. This is the first of seventeen games for the defending champion of the Mason-Dixon Conference's Northern Division.

Last year the Greyhounds posted a 12-5 record including a 10-2 league mark. Hampden-Sydney Southern Division champion, defeated the Greyhound's 2 games to 1 in championship playoff. The Hounds placed five men on the Mason-Dixon Conference All-Star team, three of whom will be wearing the Green and Gray again this year: Pitcher Ray Short, right-fielder Dave Carney, and first-baseman Ron Seager. Seven other returning lettermen make the Greyhounds outlook for 1960 very bright.
